About the Books & Author

The books Civil War Leaders, More Civil War Leaders, and Historic Pennsylvania are appropriate for children and adults of all ages. The books include more than three dozen illustrations of a variety of Civil War-era leaders and scenes from Pennsylvania History. The works are historically accurate in both text and illustrations and are selling at over seventy historical sites. The books have been approved by the National Park Service and the Civil War Preservation Trust. A portion of the profits are being donated to the preservation of American Civil War sites. Also now available are comical Civil War birthday cards with caricatures featuring famed Civil War commanders.

Author and illustrator Jared Frederick, a student at Penn State University. Beyond his love of art and sketching, he is a student of American History in general and the Civil War in particular. Jared has won a number of student art and photography contests, including six national competitions sponsored by the Civil War Preservation Trust and the History Channel. He also volunteers as a sketch artist at Harpers Ferry National Historical Park. He is currently studying History Penn State, where he is also cartoonist for the Collegiate Review and president of the History Society.
